

SHERIFF'S POWER TO PAROLE PRISONERS CUT; HITS BOOTLEGGERS

JAIL DOORS WILL GLANG SHUT FOR LIQUOR VIOLATORS

LEGISLATURE GIVES ALL JUDGES DISCRETION IN WORK LAW.

EVASION JOLTED

Huber Statute, Hitherto Joyous Loophole for Moonshiners, Amended.

Madison.—The door has been closed by the legislature on moonshiners who have been evading service of jail sentences through release under the Huber prison work law.

Both houses of the legislature completed passage of an amendment to the law, which will leave the discretion to the judges in all instances to work off their sentences, turning over their earnings to dependents. Governor Blaine will sign the bill already enacted by the senate and the lower house amendment, and at that time the mandatory feature of the existing statute will be removed.

Jail Sentence Joke.

In its present form the Huber prison work law has been described by the state prohibition department as the most effective way conceivable for moonshiners to evade punishment. Jail sentences were becoming a joke through its operation. So flagrant were the violations of the spirit of the law that Governor Blaine has been compelled to send special instructions to sheriffs informing them that if more cases were not used in freeing prisoners, he would have to use his removal power in some instances.

Speaking of the operation of the Huber law, W. Stanley Smith, prohibition commissioner, recently told the finance committee that the legislature that prohibited law violators sent to jail were being farmed out to former partners to return to the manufacture of illicit liquor while supposed to be serving time.

He declared that effective enforcement was impossible with the prison work law in its present form.

Work, then, had been the legislature, at once offering an amendment to remove the mandatory feature of the law which bears his name. The amendment accepted the change without discussion.

The assembly, however, lacked an amendment which will prevent prisoners from being worked for more than eight hours a day. Since under the amended law, they will be required to spend the time, when they are not working, in jail, it is thought that the senate will concur in the amendment so the bill may go to the governor.

SALOON BILL IS DEFEATED IN ASSEMBLY

Madison.—The drys came out on top when a fight on prohibition enforcement ended Tuesday night in the assembly with the killing, 46 to 21, of the Mark bill to remove regulations of saloons from the state prohibition department and place it in the hands of cities.

Assemblyman Mark declared resignation of saloons was a local affair and not to be interfered with by the state.

His remarks brought the statement from Assemblyman Grandin that by removing this regulatory section from the state law the way would be opened for return of the old saloon, with all of its attendant features.

Rescuers Drill Way to Worker Locked in Vault

Madison.—A rescue party, here on Tuesday, drilled its way to a vault in a building on the corner of Madison and State streets, where a worker was locked in.

The first judgment of the attending physicians was that Digiacoma would recover.

Polite Rebuke to Harvey Is Seen

London.—Earl of Balfour's reply in the house of lords to Ambassador Harvey's recent reference to the famous Balfour note on the subject of allied debts received much attention from the London newspapers. Some of the writers regard the address as a polite rebuke.

CITY MANAGER PLAN ELECTION

Q.—When is the election under the city manager plan voted by the people in 1922?

A.—On Tuesday, April 3, 1923, will be opened in the ten precincts of the city and the election will be held.

Q.—Do we vote for a city manager?

A.—We do not. The city manager is not elected by the vote of the citizens at an election.

Q.—For whom do we vote?

A.—The only city officials elected at any election under the city manager plan are the members of the council and the members of the school board, the justices of the peace, constables and the municipal judge. The only ones coming under the city manager plan are the members of the city council.

Q.—How many members of the council are to be elected?

A.—Seven.

Q.—How many members of the council are elected by ward?

A.—Not seven are elected by all the voters of the city. Each citizen may vote for NOT MORE than seven, in the opinion of the board of election, of eight or nine the ballot will be defective and the inspectors would have to throw it out.

Q.—How long is the term for which the seven candidates receiving the highest number of ballots are elected?

A.—Under the law half the number—three receiving the highest number of ballots will serve for two years and the others for one year.

Q.—Do the members of the council receive any pay?

A.—The members of the city manager plan are the members of the council and the members of the school board, the justices of the peace, constables and the municipal judge. The only ones coming under the city manager plan are the members of the city council.

Q.—Do we have a mayor under city manager?

A.—Not under that name. The president of the council is elected by the seven members selected by the people. He is in many respects considered as mayor but has no executive authority.

Appointments Problem One of Great Worries of President Harding

Copyright, 1922, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Madison, Wis.—President Harding is having a good time, but if things should grow monotonous all he has to do to make him glad he is here is to read the front pages of the Janesville Gazette.

Mr. Harding's opportunity for thinking out problems have been in recent weeks disturbed by something which he has called a "bad headache."

In this land of straw hats and bathing suits, with the temperature of the air rising to the point of eighty at mid-day, the slightest work is a heavy burden. The president's health is a matter of concern to all who follow him.

ROSA AND GOVERNOR AT ODDS BLAINE FRAMING NEW TAX BILL

Germans Rushing Children Out of Ruhr Territory

FOUR NABBED, DOPE SEIZED IN VICE RAID

Chicago.—Four men were arrested Friday in a downtown hotel and narcotics valued at $3,000 were seized by the police in connection with the suspected inter-city drug peddling syndicate.

The men held on suspicion gave their names as Max Levy, Kansas City; R. E. Madelon, Green Bay, Wis.; Simon Tomposky and Max Blumenthal, Chicago.

Ducov, the police charged, offered $500 for his freedom after his arrest. A quantity of drugs, the police declared, was found in Ducov's room.

Less than a week remains for filing income tax returns and as the great American public becomes aware of the fact demand for information and aid from H. H. Cook, income tax collector, who is on the second floor of the post-office, increases daily.

DOWNTOWN FLAT IS BURGLARIZED

"Blue Goose" Fare Money Stolen from Sundstrom Apartment.

In one of the first downtown flat burglaries occurring here in many years, the apartment of S. R. Sundstrom, 32 South Main street, over the J. C. Penney store, was looted of $24 in cash, Thursday night, according to a report made to the police.

Mr. Sundstrom reported, explaining that she left early to attend the first show at a motion picture theater, noting the money missing when she returned a few minutes after nine.

Mr. Sundstrom, part owner of the Gray Rabbit Stage Lines, had left for Alton early in the evening, she told police. On his desk when he left was an envelope containing about $20 and the report of fares of the driver of the "Blue Goose" from Janesville to Beloit, she said.

CONDUCTOR "JAKE" MYERS OF ELKHORN CALLED BY DEATH

Elkhorn.—J. J. Myers, 47 years, a conductor of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, has made his last run and Engineer Harvey Roe has lost his companion of 20 years, during which they have run their "own division" between Elkhorn and Engle.

Mr. Myers died in Elkhorn Friday after an illness of little more than a week. He was 48 years old. Conductor Myers was known to thousands through his railroad work.

He started railroad work in the early days on the Old Western railroad, running between Racine and Savannah, Ill. He was a brakeman and in those days the only coal burning engines in the Wisconsin yards were the Shermans and Chautau.

He was proud of his long record of service and will be missed by hundreds of his friends and associates. He was a member of the Elkhorn Elks club and was a member of the Elkhorn Elks club.

HOUSE PASSES 8-HOUR BILL; VOTE CLOSE

Madison.—With final passage Friday in the assembly of the Tucker bill, establishing a basic eight hour day in Wisconsin industry, the measure now goes to the senate, where it will encounter strenuous opposition.

In the assembly vote of 47 to 20, there are a number of progressive republicans who are in opposition to the measure. The Tucker bill declares the basic eight hour day as public policy in Wisconsin and imposes heavy penalties on employers who work their laborers longer than the statutory limit.

It permits overtime work on payment for time and one half, under certain conditions. As passed in the assembly, all farm laborers and employees in industries employing less than six persons are excluded from its provisions. This would cut out a large part of the workmen in the state.

The deleterious effect on workmen employed in industry more than eight hours a day served as the principal argument used in urging passage of the measure.

Noted Physicians Rush to Aid 114-Fever Victim

Excelsior, Mich.—Evelyn Lyons, 30, whose case of 114 degrees of temperature for the last 19 days has resulted in a flood of telegrams and letters asking for details and extending consolation from all parts of the United States, stepped up in her chair Friday morning with a smile of expectancy on her face.

The fever has not abated the slightest, but Evelyn read over news reports which informed her of aid from several of the nation's most eminent physicians and fever specialists.

"I hope that they come here," the girl said, "as I know I will get well. Then they will believe that I have the fever which the doctors have recorded."

ALWAYS NAGGING

Ridiculed Her Relatives, Swore and Struck at Her.

A decision by the jury trying the $75,000 Westby-Monroe allegation of affection suit in the Rock county circuit court was expected last Friday, as the climax was reached during the morning when Mrs. Caroline Westby, wife of James Westby, testified for the defense.

When court adjourned at 12 o'clock Mrs. Westby had just concluded testimony under direct examination and was to be subjected to a cross examination when court recessed at 2 o'clock until another witness will be called by the defense. It was indicated, and several were expected to testify in rebuttal.

Arguments of attorneys were to be limited to one hour for each side in the case, one of the most unusual in court history.

Amidst tears and sobbing at intervals, Mrs. Westby gave testimony of her troubles of 7 years of married life with the plaintiff in the action. She corroborated testimony of other witnesses as to trouble with her husband and told of how hard he worked the children, and his cruelty to the animals and the subject slavery to carrying out his wishes to which the entire family was subjected.

Had to Wash His Face

"He wasn't mad all the time, but when he got mad he was real mad. I'll tell you he made things fly," said the witness.

The witness told how she had to wash his face and hands until she rebelled two years ago.

Westby in his home life was good at times but swore and struck at times when things didn't suit him, she said.

"You could always tell when he had a spell on for he would start on the horses and other stock. One day he beat a horse with a rod until the horse and he were covered with blood, he beat the cows so

PUSH MOVE TO BOSS REGENTS

Madison.—A new move of administration forces to gain control of the regents of the university appeared in the senate Friday with the introduction of a bill by Senator J. J. Severson to increase the size of the governing body of the university by two members and to require that one regent must represent farmers and two labor. The upper house Wednesday night killed the Tivus bill, aimed to accomplish the same purpose.

The new bill is wanted by the university regents to be in the administration. The new bill was prepared to meet objections of some senators who opposed the original measure.

Resignation Talk Is Not Believed at State Capitol

Madison.—Differences between Charles D. Rosa, chairman of the Wisconsin state tax commission and the governor have reached so acute a stage that Mr. Blaine Friday morning took command of the ship and will dictate tax legislation hereafter. A new bill will be framed and the joint finance committee will endeavor to draw a bill taking in the features of both the Severson and the Dahl bills which are not objectionable and making a new bill under approval of the governor. This will almost completely side-track Rosa as a factor in the taxation program. Among the commissioners and appointees of the governor called into the executive office and warned about lobbying.

It is declared was given a rebuke but his friends declare that such statements are "loosely made." Rumors that the governor asked for the resignation of Rosa which have been persistently circulated are lacking an answer on the part of either the governor or the former Beloit judge.

But the situation has grown acute and there is a decided Blaine and anti-Blaine feeling among the progressives who were elected on the Blaine ticket.

Blaine's Leadership

The true situation is that on the tax question and on the national guard question, Governor Blaine wants to assert leadership. He is aware that leaders within his own faction are in a position to thwart his plans if they wish, and in order to assure a program of legislation he is urging these men to unite behind the program he maps out.

The governor has advised those attending his conferences that on the national guard issue his message stands as the last word. He let it be known also that he would have his own tax bill, and that he likewise expected cooperation on this measure.

No Resignations

State officials and heads of departments will continue to be called in by the executive in order that his views may be impressed. There is said to be little likelihood that any state official will resign, although the governor has told some of these appearing before him that he asked one resignation. Although said to have been requested several weeks ago, this resignation has not been offered.

Police Think Ax Wielder Suicide; Wife Recovering

Stevens Point.—Belief is expressed here that Ken Kostuch, charged with the slaying of his wife, left his home in Amherst Junction Sunday evening last, may have killed himself.

Officers have but slight success in unearthing new clues as to his whereabouts. "Those who advanced the suicide theory cite the fact that Kostuch, when he allegedly left his wife lying in the snow at the rear of the house, probably fled with the thought that his wife was dead. Fear of the consequences of his act may have led to self destruction. It is believed.

Mrs. Kostuch is recovering.

STATE PLANT FOR CEMENT PLANNED

Assembly Committee Will Draw Bill Appropriating $15,000 for Project.

Madison.—A state-owned cement plant for Wisconsin, located within the realm of possibility Friday when the state assembly committee of the assembly, with the sanction of Governor J. J. Blaine, determined to draw a bill appropriating $15,000 for a thorough investigation of the practicability of such an establishment.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars annually could be saved to the state by the ownership of a cement manufacturing plant, the committee was told by A. H. Hirst, state highway engineer. Unless some action is taken, the state engineer declared the cement trust would gouge Wisconsin of millions of dollars.

After taking the matter up with Governor Blaine, the state assembly committee agreed to increase the appropriation for investigation to $15,000. To make the proposed survey and report plans for the state establishment, a committee is provided for, to be appointed by the governor. Mr. Hirst and J. G. Mack, state chief highway engineer, were directed to draw the bill.

Committee members expressed the opinion that prison labor in the cement industry might be the proposed state manufacturing plant, as they are used in the bindery twine plant at Waupun.

It was agreed the establishment to be planned should have a maximum capacity of 100,000 barrels annually. The state and counties use approximately 4,000,000 barrels in their highway work.

Skater Collides with Automobile, Slightly Hurt

Colliding with the rear of an automobile driven by L. A. Markham, employment officer of the machine motor company, a 10-year-old boy, skated at the corner of Jackson street and Oakland avenue, Melvin Malinberg, 14, was knocked down, Thursday afternoon. The boy was rushed to Mercy hospital where it was found he was more scared than hurt. The lad is the son of A. M. Malinberg, 446 South Garfield avenue. He was roller skating down Jackson street hill.

WONDER GIRL DRIVES CAR BLINDFOLDED

An unusual feat of driving was performed Friday afternoon by "Kodak," the girl who sees with her eyes, when she drove a Chevrolet automobile from the Myers theater, where she is appearing in week-end vaudeville, to the Corn Exchange, blindfolded. The blindfold consisted of cotton batting, fastened on the face with adhesive tape, and six thicknesses of black cloth over that, and was declared to be a perfect fit. The girl was rushed to the Corn Exchange perfectly. Saturday she will appear in a number of local stores, identifying objects without touching or looking at them.

STORE IS OPENED IN OLD FIFTH OFFICE

William Howland opened a men's clothing store at South Jackson and West Milwaukee streets Friday in the place formerly occupied by the H. F. Lumber company. The store will be known as "Square Deal Howland." It will feature high grade lines of men's clothing. Mr. Howland is well known in this city, having been in the retail business for several years.

was a prima donna, the other cats too much and the children are humbly," she said.

Left of Own Accord. Instances of Westby's cruelty to her were specified by the woman in an hour and a half on the stand. She told how every time they went to bed their car was parked in an alley, and that she couldn't recall when they walked down the street together.

A complete recital of the trouble which led her to leave home was given by Mrs. Westby who denied that Munroe had anything to do with her leaving Westby. She declared her desire to get away from his mistreatment and nagging of years and years prompted her to stay away when she got out of the hospital.

"He called me a damn fool, or a damn snail whenever he got provoked, which I didn't like at all. He was always directing and telling me when and how to do things," Mrs. Westby testified.

Incident, Mrs. Westby had told her husband, when he struck her because acid hadn't been removed, that if he struck her again she was through.

Friends of Woman Testify. That Mrs. Westby thought the impulse which led her to jump out of the car driven by her husband when they went home from Beloit last May was an act of Divine Providence in answer to her prayers for relief from her troubles was the statement of Lois C. Gates, Turtle, on the witness stand.

The same statement was made by Mrs. Mary W. Westby, Beloit, with whom Mrs. Westby visited. She recalled what Mrs. Westby had told her about her troubles at home. Albert Nussbaum corroborated his wife's testimony.

Dr. W. O. Thomas, Clinton, Westby's family physician, testified that Mrs. Westby was a very nervous woman. No love was lost between the Westbys and Munroe's, Fred Collinge admitted on the stand. He said Mrs. Westby had told him and his wife that she left Westby because she was afraid of him.

Damage Verdict Not Expected. Based on evidence presented thus far, a verdict of damages for the plaintiff is not expected for Westby's wife has established her reason for leaving him to get away from the man himself and not because of her brother's influence and her expressed reason to others has been testified to by relatives and friends.

The strongest witness for the plaintiff was Mrs. Eva Austin, who told of hearing Munroe tell his sister at the hospital that he would see she was provided for if she stayed away from him.

50 EXAMINED IN INJURY ACTIONS

Many Doctors Among Witnesses Called in 2-Day Hearing Here.

Some 50 witnesses, including more than a dozen doctors from Janesville, Port Atkinson and other cities have been examined by the industrial commission in workmen's compensation hearings conducted in the municipal court room of the city hall here the past two days before Examiner H. H. Nelson. The two-day session came to a close, Friday afternoon, the examiner and reporter returning to Madison with reports of testimony for consideration of the commission in determining compensation.

Friday morning was taken up in hearing the cases of Russell E. Kapke vs. Tractor City Sand & Gravel company; Marjory Heffernan vs. Janesville Delivery company; and William Wiesel vs. Douglas Hardware company.

In the case of Kapke, Kapke seeks compensation for permanent disability—a stiff knee, he being unable to bend one leg. He was hurt when a fly wheel on the gravel company's machine struck his knee and infection set in. In the Heffernan-Delivery company case there is some question as to liability, the plaintiff claiming she was carrying some goods home for her employer when struck by an automobile. Some teeth were knocked out and one arm was bruised. Dr. J. R. W. testified as to injuries to teeth.

In the Wiesel-Douglas case, Wiesel claims he hurt his right hand last November while installing a furnace for the Douglas Hardware company and that infection set in, sending him to the hospital for 13 days. He claims total disability for the ring finger of his right hand. In this case there is also a question of liability as the defendant claims Wiesel received the injury while overhauling and cranking his car, and not while in the company's employ. It is claimed no notification was given of the injury for several days. Dr. G. C. Vanille, Harvey Hathorn, Eric Graf and Charles Hathorn were among the witnesses called in this case. O. A. Oestreich representing Douglas.

Cases Heard Thursday.

In the action of Mrs. L. Stewart vs. Dr. Wayne A. Munn heard Thursday there is a question as to whether the doctor is liable for injury suffered by a servant. Fred Keiser, Port Atkinson, claims permanent disability in one foot as a result of a fall suffered while working for the Crandine Package Mfg. company in that city last fall. The case of Elizabeth Buchanan against the city of Port Atkinson was heard. Here the plaintiff seeks compensation for the death of her 72-year old father upon whom she was dependent, the claim being that he died from stomach injuries suffered while an employee of the city.

The cases of Wm. H. Smith vs. Green County Canneries and Iva Wollenberg vs. Troy Steam Laundry were put over for a later hearing.

The following cases were to be heard, Friday afternoon: Ella M. Trachsel vs. Drs. Munn and Parnsworth; Earl R. Smith vs. Wisconsin Telephone company; and Mary Moser vs. Wisconsin Telephone company.

Sister Will Be Buried, Saturday

Sister Mary Stanislaus, who died Thursday afternoon at Mercy hospital following a two weeks' illness, was buried in the afternoon in the shade of the historic Rock of Cashal, Tipperary County, Ireland. She was a descendant of the fine old Luby clan whose men followed to this day the tradition in the affairs of the old town. In her early twenties, Sister Stanislaus entered the order of Mercy and for many years was a teacher at St. Patrick's parochial school. Many local men and women learned their first prayers and lessons more than 30 years ago from this venerable sister.

Obligated to resign from the teaching staff because of ill health, Sister Stanislaus in later years cared for and beautified the convent lawns. Through long years of chronic invalidism she kept the buoyant spirit and simple trusting heart of a little child. Sister Stanislaus early identified herself with the smaller children, gathering their little hands and little difficulties which arose during the school day.

The funeral will be held at 10:30 a. m. Sunday at St. Patrick's church. Burial will be in Mt. Olive cemetery. Solemn high mass will be celebrated with the Rev. J. E. Harlin, Davenport, as celebrant; the Rev. Dean James P. Ryan, dean; and the Rev. Thomas Pierce, Sharon, subdeacon. Dean Ryan will preach the sermon. Pallbearers will be: Frank Bior, Joseph Connery, Hugh M. Joyce, Edward J. Kavanagh, and William Croak.

Funeral of Harry Linn Handy.

The funeral of Harry Linn Handy was held at 2:30 p. m. Friday from the residence, 15 Arch street, with the Rev. H. G. Peterson, First Baptist church officiating. Mrs. E. B. Looft was gathering the song service. Members of the police force attended in a body. Floral offerings were profuse. Pallbearers were: Thomas Reed, Edward Murphy, Clarence Queney, Dan Monahan, Paul Zabel and Alden Hayes. Burial was in Oak Hill cemetery.

Funeral of Mrs. James Mount.

Funeral services for Mrs. James Mount were held at the family residence, 703 Court street, at 2 p. m. Thursday. The Rev. J. A. Nelson, First Presbyterian church, officiated. Pallbearers were: David McFay, Peter Jamieson, J. P. Wertenlyke, James Scott, W. J. Skelly and Henry Hanson. The body was laid to rest in a vault at Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Isaac Moorehouse, Geneva.

Isaac Moorehouse—Mrs. Isaac Moorehouse, 75, a daughter of Seymour Hatch, one of the early settlers of Linn township, died Thursday at her home here after several months' illness. Mrs. Moorehouse leaves her husband, two sons, Benjamin of New Jersey and William of Lake Geneva, and two daughters, Miss Amy Moorehouse and Mrs. A. L. Malsch, Lake Geneva. Seven grandchildren, a brother, Harvey, and two sisters, Miss Emily Tacht and Mrs. John Betts, Linn. Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 p. m. Saturday, and burial will be in Hazel Ridge cemetery.

M'Dowell Concert

Set for Apr. 22

The Mac Dowell club voted at a meeting, Thursday to present a community concert, April 22, in accordance with the plan for musical organizations to furnish entertainment of various kind at the high school auditorium. Mrs. W. T. Sherer presented the plan to the club. O. N. Nelson, Chamber of Commerce, and member of the community concert committee, said that within a few days other organizations would announce the dates for their concerts.

Traffic regulations that will reduce reckless driving and the number of deaths from auto accidents.

Too Much Government.

In Buckle's History of Civilization is this paragraph: "The accusation which the historian is bound to bring against every government which has hitherto existed, is that it has overstepped its proper functions."

One is brought up short and standing as he reads of the sessions of the many legislatures
which are now making laws—thousands of them,
or considering bills, not by the hundreds, but by the thousands, and most of them for regulatory and paternalistic purposes. Wisconsin is not alone in this "overstepping" the functions of government. It is true of all states in a more or less degree, fortunately in a lesser degree in most of the other states, while congress gradually has encroached on the every act of the citizen.

It costs about one-sixth of the total income of the country to carry on this government. It takes an army of men and women on the official
pay rolls to collect the revenue levied on business.
Interest charges are enormous. Research of the last few months by Gaylord Cummin—the expert who made the survey of the government of the city of Janesville in the fall of 1921—under Herman Metz, former controller of New York city,
shows that we have nearly eleven billion dollars
of municipal indebtedness in the United States.
We have gone mad over government functions and delved into every conceivable activity of business and industry.

The Kansas City Star noting some of the things the government is doing, says that soon we shall "be able to afford nothing but government."

It would seem that the time has come when we should get together and mightily oppose the injection of so much government in the affairs of the people. Overhead costs eat up over a billion and a half of the taxes for the national government. It takes the larger share of state funds.
"Overhead" is the growing expense of the national life. Each session of the state legislature, each session of congress adds to these expensive frills
and imaginary necessities for commissions, boards,
special officials, inspectors, desk men and swivel-
chair leeches.

The very idea that the state needs to raise 15
or 18 million dollars for expenditures is outrageous. The hobo on the street is the only person not injured, for he may move on. It does not make a bit of difference where the taxes are originally levied, the public as an organization for social life pays the bill, somewhere and somehow. Some favored few may think they are going to escape,
but they are deceiving themselves.

It is all well enough to talk and to protest, but it is futile. The state elected the men who are making the laws and filling the hoppers of legislation with these freak bills, opposed to every decent tenet of business and economic order, and every person is in a measure responsible for the personnel of the legislature. It is only when the staggering aggregate of these laws is contemplated do we get deeply concerned.

There ought to be organized in Wisconsin, a real machine outside of political expediency to carry on a definite program of nonpartisan effort
to study and formulate a scheme of taxation equitable in all features. If there ever was need for it, that has been demonstrated recently. The governor of the state has no hesitancy in saying that neither of the tax bills offered in the legislature is workable. He wants another bill. Yet we are paying a tax commission an immense overhead,
for commissioners, clerks, experts, accountants,
collectors, examiners, special smelters and hunters
for trouble, to make a tax system that will be faultless. What do we get? A partisan, radical,
unworkable, one-sided, reactionary, hodge-podge,
frankly filled with inequalities, a dishonest mass
of political phrases. And one of those unworkable tax bills was fathered by the chairman of that tax commission.

Once more the governor of the state is the only hope at this session for a taxation measure that will in any way meet the actual necessities for revenue and have some semblance of equity and justice. Chief Justice And J. Vinje, at the Rock county bar association banquet sounded the deep note of warning against the constant differentiation between personal and property rights arising out of a misunderstanding of the terms and that there was no property right that was not in itself
a personal right.

What are we going to do about it—not now,
but later on?

Percy Stickney Grant is still preaching his heresy. Which leads one to believe he is going to emulate the example of his namesake, Gen. U.

Government Gets After a Ghost

By FREDERICK H. HASKIN.

Washington.—The influence of United States
senators and the scientific skill of the United States Geological survey were required to lay a ghost which has been haunting a North Carolina mountain for half a century. The ghost has just been laid, its manifestations have been ascribed to the most commonplace causes, and a note of finality which gave a shiver of legend to a romantic region has been coldly explained and benefit of its supernatural interest.

It is the "Ghost of Brown Mountain" and it took the form of curious lights.
There are shadowy records running back to the Civil war of the appearance of the Brown mountain light. Brown mountain is a sort of sugar loaf acclivity in the northern part of Burke county, N. C. The mountain rises out of the Catawba valley. The valley itself is encircled by ranges somewhat higher than the Brown mountain on the west and lower on the east.

To the westward of the mountain are the little towns of Lovens and Sprucepine. To the north is Blowing Rock. These places are higher than the summit of Brown mountain and therefore a man
at any of these towns can look to the eastward,
his line of vision extending over the top of Brown mountain rising from the valley and over to the hills beyond. Brown mountain is a rather desolate mass, tree covered and haunted by game.
There is no settlement upon its slopes but there are a weather observatory, a forest fire watch
tower and, here and there, lurking in its wilder
ravines, the secret skulls of moonshiners.

Edgar Allan Poe, Wilkie Collins, Sir Arthur
Conan Doyle, nor any other apostles of the weird
and supernatural could find a more fitting place
for the scene of some strange and alarming occurrence. The colorful folk of the valley, the more superstitious whites and, as will appear,
even the more enlightened population, have found
Brown mountain full of creepy thrills.

As time passed the people of the region became accustomed to the Brown mountain light and paid only occasional attention to it. It was removable and inexplicable but there was no record of its having done anyone harm. It grew over Brown mountain with quite punctual regularity every night of the year. Now at one spot and now at another, a luminous sphere would rise from behind Brown mountain, hover in the upper air for a few seconds or in some cases minutes, and then abruptly disappear. The Brown mountain light had a different appearance
from anything with which the people were familiar. Frequently, the nebulous ball of light would have the scintillating appearance of a newborn star;
sometimes it would glow fitfully as a firefly, then
it would be an angry red, then a cold blue.

It came from nowhere and it went nowhere.
It was the Brown mountain light and that was all anyone could say about it. There was no valid explanation.

Explanations offered and rejected with good scientific reason were that it was a gigantic infantile of the will-o-the-wisp, phosphorus,
radium emanations, mineral chemical reaction,
St. Elmo's fire, mirage or Andes light. For a long time the latter explanation was the most considerable candidate. "The Andes light is an electrical phenomenon which occurs in the Andes mountains in South America. It is produced by fugitive electricity dancing between the sky and the mountain peaks. In North Carolina, this was discovered to be the wrong theory because all the conditions were wrong for such a manifestation of electricity. The various theories based upon phosphorescent explanation had to be rejected because these invariably occur in marshy places and about the mountains. It was suggested that the Brown mountain light might be produced by the fires of moonshiners, busy at illicit stills, but investigations showed that this could not be true.

To some observers the light seemed to rise from the top of Brown mountain, ascend into the upper air and vanish. Others were certain the lights rose from behind the mountain, merely appearing above it as if from behind a screen. This finally was clearly demonstrated to be the case. Somewhere in the broad Catawba valley or beyond was the origin of the light.

Many parties of residents with inquiring minds
spent nights on Brown mountain and in the valley
and attempted to track down the mysterious light which the light arose. It was like seeing the end of the rainbow.

Finally the people of the region appealed to United States Senators Simmons and Overman, asking that they employ their influence to obtain a scientific investigation by the Federal government. At first the suggestion seemed rather bizarre. It looked as though the government would be "losing change at night."

But the most solid citizens of the county pressed the request, and finally George Rogers Mansfield
of the United States Geological survey was detailed to conduct an inquiry.

Equipped with alidade, telescope, camera and other scientific paraphernalia, Mr. Mansfield went to Burke county. He turned himself into a Sherlock Holmes and began thinking in wide circles about the problem. Then he did what seemed to many of the natives a strange and unnecessary thing. He spent some time in studying and charting the lines of the many railroads
which tread the Catawba valley and the country
beyond. He compiled a list of time schedule and night trains. He studied the highway maps and traced the routes of automobile traffic. With his instrument he made trigonometric calculations.

Next he made a study of the effect of the heat of the day and the cool of the mountain night on the air currents in the Catawba valley and the smaller valleys between Brown mountain and the Lovens heights. Then he laid the Brown mountain ghost.

What the bewildered observers saw were locomotive and automobile headlights miles away
across the Catawba valley—in some cases 45 miles distant.

This, of course, is only half the explanation.
Any normal person, in ordinary circumstances,
can recognize a locomotive headlight. The solution of the mystery was Mr. Mansfield's discovery that at nightfall, the headlights of the locomotives, producing extraordinary atmospheric effects which resulted in refracting, magnifying, sometimes coloring and at all times distorting any light seen through this strange veil. A headlight, instead of showing a beam, as usual, would,
through the veil, of twisted air, show like a ball
of seething light. Two automobile headlights would show as one nebulous and futile stumpation. Strange effects would be produced by the locomotives or automobiles turning curves.

Some scientific societies do not accept the headlight theory and declare that the mystery
will be solved with some explanation related to the mineral and chemical products of the region.

S. Grant, who said he "would fight it out on this line if it took all summer."

Senator Pat Harrison says that since Hughes took over the diplomacy of the nation we have been the laughing stock of the world. We suppose the admiration of the nation is extended to Kemal and Ismet Pasha, Poincare, and Cuno.

Senator Garey withdrew his educational bill
because it was found to be filled with "faulty construction." It might be well to look 908 other bills over and see if they are not suffering from the same derangement.

The Dahl bill would bring about $17,000,000
revenue to the state. That is some $4,000,000 more than is needed. The rest of it can be provided for by adding inspectors to the payroll.

JUST FOLKS

The happy land of yesterday.
Seems always, ah, so far away.
And all the friendly people, too,
That in the Bay of youth we knew.
Walk phantom-like throughout our dreams,
So far away their country seems!

The happy land of yesterday!
The there the charms of boyhood stay,
The there the joys of youth are strange.
Our favorite haunts remain unchanged.
And 'spite of pain and grief and care,
Youth keeps its old-time freedom there.

The happy land of yesterday.
A land where it is always May!
There we may turn and ever see
The orchards as they used to be.
And meet that first sweetheart again
Somewhere along the shady lane.

There still she lives, a little girl.
Time has not changed one lovely curl.
O'er stolen from her cheeks the charm;
The ivory of her neck and arm
Is still as glorious to see
As long ago it used to be.

"The only here that men grow old,
And beauty fades and hearts turn cold;
'Tis here that life is a long, long day,
With youth their constant battle wage,
But there are safe, though far away,
Who rule the land of yesterday."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. HOUTLOOF.

WHAT BOY CHAMBERS THINKS
OF TOBACCO.

Dear Roy: The enterprising of that superb moth, Sphinx quinquennial, feeds on the tobacco plant. I'm not as beautiful as this Sphinx moth. Perhaps if I swallowed the tobacco leaf instead of smoking it I might become surpassingly beautiful. I can't hurt that.

I believe in tobacco for those with whom it agrees.

Of course, I don't know what it does to the Sphinx moth's nervous system. Anyway, as it has no brain it can't hurt that.

It seems to benefit whatever brain I have.
It is supposed to dull some brains. But if the proprietor of a brain which is injured by tobacco doesn't know enough to abstain then that brain is already too dull to amount to much.—Robert W.
Chambers.

The French employers are a brave people. I largest exhibition of undistilled courage is the rule that they have for business men to the effect that stenographers shall not wear gay
clothing. In Paris stenographers must wear no jewelry and nothing but plain attire. Can you imagine any group of American business men with nerve enough to pull one like that?

We have received an announcement of a 1923
dictionary with a list of new words which it contains. These words have all been coined in the war and since the war. It is the publishers' war-guarantee to leave them out, we'll buy the book,
and we have no doubt the majority of prospective customers will feel the same way about it.

Bank notes are now being rationed in Berlin.

A couple in Harlem had so many children
they didn't know what to name the last one. So they decided to adopt the method of the Indians and name the child after the first object they saw when the child came out of the window next morning. The first thing they saw was a delivery wagon, and as a result this child will stagger
through life under the name of Swampscott Steam Laundry Higgs.

Who's Who Today

DR. HUBERT WORK.

Dr. Hubert Work, recently postmaster general
and now secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet, is a man of mystery to many interviewers and feature writers.

Trying to find out for two years why a prosperous medical, stock raiser and proprietor of the Woodcroft Hospital for neurological cases at Pueblo, Colo., would leave the scenes of thirty-six years of struggling in his profession to become a desk slave of the government in Washington.

Here are the bare facts of his life as he gives them:

"Born sixty years ago on an Indiana farm, worked over the country, then at the University of Michigan and then the medical school at Pennsylvania, worked summers on a farm and was graduated from medical school in 1891
with a degree in medicine.
$2,000. Practiced medicine

in Colorado, chiefly in Pueblo.
At first there was no other physician within forty miles and he made his trips to a buggy
and back. He married Laura M. Arbuckle of Anderson, Indiana, in 1877 and for twenty-five years after practiced medicine in the west. He founded the Woodcroft Hospital in 1876. He was made president of the Colorado State Medical Society and president of the state board of health for four years.

Work was a Colonel in the medical corps during the war, supervising medical features of the draft. He was a member of the American Legation and was made president of the American Medical Association in 1911.

Dr. Work is a large, gray haired man, somewhat stern and gruff. He has no liking for light reading and does not play cards. He is a hard worker and an avocation. He is at his desk from 8 to 6 and takes no vacations.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO.

March 9, 1883.—It is rumored that 30 or 40
employees of the railroad are to move their fam-

STRENGTH.

A popular movie actor who recently succumbed after an illness of five months, has left a warning and been considered physically strong. "Typhoid congestion of the lungs" was
the immediate cause of death.
That is a passive accumulation of blood in the lower part of the chest.
A portion of the chest, as commonly met in various conditions associated with great enfeeblement or prostration and watchfully guarded against by the physician whenever a very feeble person must be confined to bed. It is essentially a mechanical stagnation of blood in the lower chest; one preventive measure is the turning of the patient from time to time so that he shall not lie too long on the back. Although purely mechanical or passive, such hypos-tatic congestion obviously interferes with the normal oxygenation of the region involved, simply because fresh blood with its supply of oxygen cannot be delivered to the congested tissues; this state of impaired local nutrition or of local suffocation if you prefer, favors infection by the ubiquitous pneumococcus.

The pneumococcus, which is the germ usually responsible for pneumonia, bronchitis and so called
"slight colds" (though in some cases
other germs do cause these diseases)
is not delivered to the chest without without interference, the very antithesis of God. God is everywhere,
even though it be hard to believe.
He is present in some places, called Godless places. The pneumococcus seems to be nearly every place
where the bright light fully believes in the universe. The pneumococcus
on which the pneumococcus causes,
yet out in the cold and wet, the changeable weather, damp wind and chilling draft, the pneumococcus has been caught "lurking," for really this germ is one of the frailest of microscopic creatures and just can't survive a degree of "ex-posure" which even Grumpy Grumble would snap her finger at.

Q. Who paid for the Egyptian
obelisk that is now in Central Park,
New York City? D. G. H.

A. It was brought over at the expense of Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt in 1880 in the ship "Dessey," under the direction of John Jacob Astor, Goeppels, L. S. N. The obelisk formerly adorned the Temple of Isis at Heliopolis. It arrived in New York, July 15; the eleven stone blocks foundations was laid October 10; and the obelisk raised January, 1881.

Q. Which of the Presidents had March for a birth month? D. F. R.

A. March has been the birth month of four Presidents. Jackson, March 15; Tyler, March 29; and Cleveland, March 18.

Q. What is the meaning of the lower left corner of a calling card?

A. The abbreviation "P. C. in the lower left corner of a calling card
stands for "Please return card." It is there by the one leaving town without an opportunity to make the call which he desires to make. Literally translated the phrase means
"Please take care."

A. This name is given to a province in China and means Happiness Established.

Q. What is meant by cutting the Gordian knot? W. T. B.

A. In classical mythology, the Gordian knot was an intricate knot tied by Gordius, an oracle having declared that he who untied it should be master of Asia. Alexander the Great availed the women of being unable to loosen it by cutting it with his sword.

Q. How do vitamins in peanuts,
yeast cakes, and lean meat compare?

A. Of Vitamin A, the peanut has little, yeast cakes and lean meat
have none. Of Vitamin B, the peanut has a fair amount, the yeast
cake is rich in it, lean meat has little. Of Vitamin C, the amount in peanuts is unknown, the yeast cake
has none, lean meat has but little.

Q. Is the Spitz dog perfectly useless? A. C.

A. The Pomeranian sheep dog, better known as the Spitz dog, is bred in most countries as a house pet, small and fierce. But in the hands of the police on the shores of the Baltic, this dog is the local sheep
tender.

The Wall Flower

By MARION RUBINCAM

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.
 Pandora Nicholson is so painfully shy that when she meets new people she can think of nothing to say to them, and never knows what to do with her hands or feet. She lives in a small town with her Aunt Maude, her Uncle and their very popular daughter, Gladys—all of whom talk frequently that she is hopelessly stupid and queer. She has only one friend, Marion, who has herself been a wall flower. When Gladys, who has everything, suddenly marries Morton, Pan fancies herself heartbroken.

She goes to New York to live with her Aunt Maude. There she meets a young man, Frankie, who takes care of her. Among kinder people Pan begins to find herself. She really likes her. Gladys, who goes with them that summer to Europe, in Europe, Gladys, now a widow, marries Stanley Collins, leaving Pan in charge of her Aunt Maude. Pan, who has been in New York, returns to London.

There were two letters from Gloria also, addressed in the large, hurried, careless handwriting so very characteristic of the woman herself. One was for Frankie, the other for Pan. Pan, of course, had to read Frankie's to him before she even opened her own, to quiet his impatience.

"We went to a zoo just because we thought you would like it, and so I could write you of it," she wrote, and gave him two pages about the animals. And she told him a story of a peasant child who had taken to, and described the sticks on the houseposts in Ireland. She ended:

"You'd better take good care of Pan, who isn't a globe-trotter like yourself and will need looking after." Which brought a mild, little chuckle from the boy.

Then Frankie went to find his little English friends and left Pan to read her own letter and to unpack, and to read and reread the very brief message from George.

"I'm quite expecting to burst with happiness," Gloria wrote her. "I remember one time when we had been in Paris years ago and it had not stopped raining for weeks—a most terrible winter that chilled me to the marrow. I took a train late one night for the south and when I woke in the morning the sun was out and the olive trees and the flowers were in bloom and the sea was the color of sapphire, and it was warm—and I began to expand. This is like it again, only of course intensified beyond all imagination. And this will last. It's the end, forever, of winter."

Growing practical she went on, apologizing for not having written before.

"Happiness makes one selfish. I've thought of you and of Frankie often enough—but you're both the old life and I wanted to lose myself entirely in the new life for a week or two. Don't worry, I'm coming back soon to collect you both—meantime, you'll wonder what happened to me."

on to all the cities I've been miserable in, to see the sun come out in all of them."

She had been gone two weeks, she would be away perhaps two more, perhaps three.

Pan was glad, rather wished she would stay longer, in fact. Frankie was as well taken care of with her as with Gloria. He had a mature, logical, little mind and as soon as he felt his mother was happy on her trip, was quite content that she should extend it.

So Pan, stuffing muddled clothes into a laundry bag and unpacking suitcases, began to sing cheerfully as she worked.

What was there in the world to worry about? George was coming that evening!

She slipped into the demure little silk dress with the absurd apron that she had bought in Paris. George hadn't seen this—she wondered whether he would like it. Gloria said it made her look "like a little pink sugar plum."

Frankie was in bed, the maid who sat in the little living room during the time she was out, arrived and settled with her knitting. She was only English, and she had come hours ahead of time! It was quarter to eight—dinner time was eight—she ought to come! Pan's hands went cold with nervous excitement, her cheeks flushed pink.

And then George came and she went down to the hotel lobby to meet him, pulling her cape around her. Pan's cheeks turned bright pink, and she went off alone with him to dine. George remarked about it too, when they had settled in a restaurant and had made the important decisions about things to eat.

"Like the good old days, Pan, isn't it? We're too late for a show or a concert or any of our usual forms of evening dissipation. We'll go back to your place and talk—I want to know all you've been doing."

"There's no Gloria to come in now and make us laugh telling us about her parties and the old people she's met," Pan said, half dolefully.

"Well, cheer up, no doubt we'll manage!" George smiled a little at his companion. "Do you miss her?"

"The girl smiled, and added that she wanted her to stay away longer, however."

"Did you miss me?" George asked suddenly, leaning forward slightly.

Pan's cheeks turned bright pink. Had she missed him? How could she say it without giving herself away?

Saturday—George Talks driven under each end of the sill, pull to the desired width and allow to dry.

Paraffin in the Kitchen.—Keep a cup of shaved paraffin in an enamel cup on the back of the stove where it is ready to be melted at an instant's notice. When you are through with olive oil or flaxseed extracts of any sort cork the bottles and dip the heads of the bottles into slightly cooled wax, in this way preserving the strength.

Turning Heavy Mattresses.—Fasten loops made by doubling strong material to the corners of your heavy mattress and you will find it possible to turn them without a struggle to take them out of doors for airing and brushing.

To Polish Furniture.—Take two channels skins; soak one in soapy, lukewarm water for several hours. Then take the same one and lukewarm water and a little Ivory soap and polish with the other channels. It not only is a cheap polish but protects your furniture and the dust will not adhere to the furniture.

For the Kiddies.—In corner of play room keep a large carton filled with empty baking powder and cocoa boxes, etc. On rainy days a very real looking store is soon set up which will amuse the children for hours.

A Day's Baking.—Here is what an automatic electric oven in a large city cafeteria produces in the course of the day's work: Three hundred pies of eight varieties, 235 dozen rolls, sixteen assorted cakes, twenty dozen cookies, twenty dozen cakes, fifty Martha Washington pies and seven kinds of hot bread.

To Open Cans.—Did you ever try to open a can of food? Did you punch a hole in the top of the can, wiggle the cap open around, leaving a jagged edge like a buzzsaw? Did you put your hand and lose your temper over the poor indifferently can? If so, you will be interested to know that there is no need for all this extra effort and annoyance. Just remove the label from the side of the can, until you can see the seam, which was in forming the body of the can. Lay the can on its side and puncture the can next to the seam with the point of a can opener, and next to the top of the can. Then set the can in an upright position, insert the can opener in the hole already made on the "side" of the can—working away from the seam until you have cut around the can. You will then be able to turn back the entire top (or bottom). If the can is hot, firmly, any ordinary can opener will answer. By this method there is no risk of cutting the hand, and you will have a smooth edge, over which the entire contents will pass without being out of broken.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please tell me if it is permissible for the hostess to sit at the table when she is entertaining gentlemen at a stag party for her husband?

I would much prefer to wait on table and serve the courses when they are ready than to sit at the table as I think men like to talk over things. We have no help.

It would be permissible for you to sit at the table, but not necessary. I think you are right that the men would enjoy being alone.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I read in your column about the woman who signed her name "PARTICULAR HOUSEKEEPER" and thought if she would want to put the little girl out in a country home that perhaps she would like to go to parties on a farm about five miles out of town. We are just a young couple and have no children. We both love children, perhaps when the roads get a little better they might drive out to see us.

I have not the address of "PARTICULAR HOUSEKEEPER," but if she sends it to me I will see that she receives your letter, offering assistance. Thank you so much for your interest.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two young girls in our teens and we are in love with two young men, but our parents do not allow us to go or keep company with them. We are not allowed to go to parties, dances or theaters with our boy friends.

Please advise us what to do. Is it right that our parents should keep us in all the time and not let us keep company with our boy friends? We sometimes go out with them against the will of our parents. Would it be wrong if we wrote to you occasionally? MEG AND GEE.

You have not told definitely enough your ages. If you are in your early teens your parents are quite right in their stand. But if you are eighteen or nineteen they certainly ought to let you have young men friends.

Do not correspond against your parents' wishes unless you are of age.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am seventeen and am in love with my sister's friend who is five years my senior. At times when my sister does not feel inclined to go out with him he takes me instead and often the three of us go together. He is attracted toward us causes rather ill-feeling between my sister and me, since we both care for him.

Last evening he took me to the theater and asked me to kiss him good night. Before that I had not to forget that I loved him but that kiss made me see how impossible it is to forget. I shall always love him. Which do you think should give him up?

BOBBIE.

If either of you give up the young man, you ought to do it of course. In the first place it would have been very much better if you had stated out of the matter and not permitted yourself to take a lively interest in some one who meant a lot to your sister. Now that the thing has gone so far, however, the matter really rests in the choice of the young man himself. Do not try to rival your sister or cheat her out of something which belongs to her. When the young man calls for her, leave the room and do not interfere with her pleasure. Also I would not advise you to go along when he takes her places.

I would much prefer to wait on table and serve the courses when they are ready than to sit at the table as I think men like to talk over things. We have no help.

It would be permissible for you to sit at the table, but not necessary. I think you are right that the men would enjoy being alone.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I read in your column about the woman who signed her name "PARTICULAR HOUSEKEEPER" and thought if she would want to put the little girl out in a country home that perhaps she would like to go to parties on a farm about five miles out of town. We are just a young couple and have no children. We both love children, perhaps when the roads get a little better they might drive out to see us.

MRS. C. H.

I have not the address of "PARTICULAR HOUSEKEEPER," but if she sends it to me I will see that she receives your letter, offering assistance. Thank you so much for your interest.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. A mild, pure coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing. As this cannot possibly injure the hair, simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of this in a cup of glass with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub the mixture in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dust, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisil cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multisil.

GROCERS PUSH SALE OF CANNED FOODS

National Campaign Is Furthered Here—Egg Price Drops.

National Canned Foods week is being observed this week, and the great public sale of the movement by wholesalers and retailers has brought to the attention of the public the great variety of goods that can be purchased in cans. With the art of preserving at the finger tip, now reached, food knows no season. Summer vegetables and fruits can be had all through the winter by the simple operation of opening a can, and the southern fruits that find a market here in winter can be enjoyed all through the summer.

The quantities of canned foods now made it possible to have more economical to purchase, their vegetables canned than fresh, or to preserve them by their own methods.

The number of things now obtainable in cans is unbelievable and the displays being made by grocers all over the city are surprising to many people.

New things in the fruit and vegetable market are hard to find, although some of the southern specialties seen for two and three weeks past are still obtainable. Among them are mushrooms, cucumbers, peppers, spinach, green radishes, onions and carrots, tomato, string beans, strawberries, pineapples and apples.

The usual winter vegetables are seen with prices which have remained stable all winter. Among them are cabbage, cauliflower, celery, cranberries, onions, spinach, rutabagas, white turnips, etc.

Eggs have gone down in price during the course of the week, 35 cents now being the prevailing price. Butter is the same at 51-55 cents. The sugar situation has not changed, and cabbage has not increased in price in spite of the scare of a week ago.

Caruso Costumes Bring Small Sum

New York.—The brilliantly colored costumes worn by Enrico Caruso in some of his most popular roles were placed on the auction block Wednesday and sold for little more than a song.

The highest price paid was $70. This was for the costume Caruso wore as Radames in "Aida." The sixteenth century Brescian walnut cabinet, used as an altar for the baptism of Gloria Caruso, brought $425. It was auctioned by Mrs. Caruso's share of the receipts would go to the Caruso foundation for the benefit of needy Italians.

APPOINTMENTS WORRY PRESIDENT HARDING

that sum in the practice of law or other professions, and they realize the sacrifices that must be made by those who give up lucrative opportunities to take public office.

Prejudice in Illness.
But there is a prejudice, "back home" against "dinner" salaries. So the president finds himself limited in his choice either to men who have made their fortunes and look up governmental service as a diversion or possibly an opportunity for the social interest of their families, or to men who wish to use the government as a means of educating themselves for special kinds of business or professional service later on in life.

Neither of these classes would cause any difficulty if they contained always just the right men for the right places, a thing that is not even easy to find in the business world where salary is not a factor. But more often the president is dragged into still another group and forced to take his pick. That group consists of the politically active or their friends, many of whom in the business world would not be apt to earn as much as the government will pay them.

"Name Ducks" Problem.
The demands of politics have been particularly trying to Mr. Harding. The defeat at the autumn elections of many members of congress made it politically necessary to take care of "name ducks." Mr. Harding was a lame duck once himself and knows how it feels. He has been brought up in the atmosphere of practical politics and realizes that without party workers little can be hoped for by a candidate. Nineteen twenty-four is not far away and, even if Mr. Harding were not to be the candidate, he has such an enduring interest in the maintenance of party cohesion that he would be found caring for the "name ducks" just the same.

The trouble is that however much one sympathy may be with these "lame ducks" they do not always have the ability to fill the positions in which special training is required. Many an administration has tried to improve the diplomatic service but the Harding administration like its predecessors, finds places for the politicians in the embassies and legations abroad.

The adjournment of congress has brought some relief from the appointment problem as most all of the nominations require confirmations by the senate, and Mr. Harding is not much of a believer in the idea of recess appointments because the man appointed doesn't always get the support he needs in administering the duties of his office when there is a change of congress may not confirm him on its return. The main spring of the whole appointment problem, of course, is the political enemies it makes. Few people realize how the congress of legislation can be affected by personal differences which senators and members of the house may have with the chief executive over appointments. Mr. Harding's hardest job has been to appoint federal judges, the congestion of work in the courts having induced congress to create many new federal judgeships. These judges hold office for life and must be carefully selected.

Few Recess Appointments.
Mr. Harding will not fill any vacancies during the recess of congress if he can help it. He is going to try to steer clear of appointments altogether until next December and give his time to the broad policies of his administration and the preparation of measures for the December session of congress. That is quite enough in itself.

100 WAYS To Make Money
By BILLY WINNER

If I Could Wash Curtains—
I WOULD specialize in this kind of work. Janesville people would come to know that I was the one to wash their curtains—all kinds—and stretch them.
To begin with, anyway, I'd have to tell people about my certain service myself. The more people I told the more customers I would get and the more money I would make.
With Gazette Want Ad, I could place my message before 40,000 people in a single day.

BLAINE CUTS BIG STICK FOR SOLONS

Plans to Assert Leadership with Force on Tax and Economy Measures.

Madison—Governor Blaine is preparing to assert his leadership with force in the legislature in order to push through a comprehensive program of legislation. He has advised his leaders in both houses, Taxation and economy are to be two chief considerations of the executive.

The controversy that has developed over the two tax bills now before the legislature has resulted in such a middle that their defeat appears likely. This situation caused the governor to take a hand, and he has now reported that he will have a bill of his own, probably introduced by the finance committee which will contain provisions of the Dahl and Severson bills so far as they can be united. He expects to get united action on the proposal now under contemplation and to have the backing of both houses for the measure.

While taxation is the most important problem with which Governor Blaine intends to deal, he plans to force down governmental expenses. His stand on the national guard will bring a large saving to the state, forcing the appropriation down to $200,000 annually or less. Other departments will be held to a minimum on expenses, in order to effect a saving.

Hunger Striker Sent to Asylum

Marquette—John Birta, town of Stephenson farmer, who for 11 days has been on a hunger strike at the jail, where he was held for alleged violation of liquor laws, was committed to the northern hospital for the insane at Winnebago by Judge A. E. Davis Thursday. He will be forcibly fed at the Winnebago institution, it was said.

ORDERS COMPANY DISSOLVED
Waukesha—Col. J. G. Salomon, acting adjutant general, has ordered that Co. D, 127th Infantry, Wisconsin national guard, be dissolved. The action has been expected.

M. N. DAVIS NAMED EDITOR OF REVIEW

Succeeds Crosley at Milton College; Debates, Concerts Are Scheduled.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Milton.—Meyl N. Davis, a junior, was elected editor of the Milton College Review Wednesday by unanimous vote of the student body. He succeeds Raymond Crosley, who resigned to leave school because of poor health. The new editor also is intercollegiate athletic manager. He has served in various capacities on the Review staff during the last two years.

Freshmen of Milton and Carroll colleges will engage in a dual debate here and at Waukesha next Thursday night. The question of prohibiting industrial strikes by law will be argued.

NEW VIGOR FOR WORN-OUT WOMEN

ARE you suffering from "spring fever"—hardly able to drag one foot after another, and dull, sleepy, languid and worn out?

You ought to take Gude's Pepto-Mangan for a short time. Get a bottle and begin now—you'll be surprised to see how much stronger and more ambitious you feel—how much more work you can do, how your cheeks fill out and the rosy color comes back. Your druggist has Gude's—in both liquid and tablet form.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan
Tonic and Blood Enricher

Randolph, a vocal solo by Audrey Babcock, a humorous skit entitled "One Reel Movie," and selections by a string trio composed of the Misses Alberta Crandall, Ardis Bennett and Constance Bennett.

The Milton College symphony orchestra will give its annual home concert next Wednesday night, assisted by Dr. Thomas J. Snodgrass, baritone soloist of Janesville. The program will include such numbers as the famous "William Tell" overture, the "Past and Present" overture and the Andante movement from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

The concert will be repeated Thursday night in Port Atkinson.

ON AGIN, OFF AGIN
Santiago, Chile—The cabinet formed early in January with Francisco Garcia Gana as premier, resigned Thursday in consequence of an adverse vote on a resolution of confidence in the senate.

Miss Mithan A. Tata, of Bombay, India, has been admitted to the law practice of Great Britain, being the first woman from her country to be thus honored.
